

The CoREN

The CoREN's objectives are to:

- Know what matters to people in local communities, which health research could help improve.
- Ensure communities are involved in developing, creating and doing research which has the potential to impact in local places.
- Create and facilitate a space for discussion and development of research.
- Share knowledge and skills around health research and how better to understand it and get involved.

3 main workstreams:-

- 1) Capacity building & knowledge mobilisation
- 2) Research ready and active!
- 3) Community ready researchers

Capacity building & knowledge mobilisation

- CoREN Leadership group
- Contact database
- Knowledge mobilisation events
- Alternative models for public engagement and involvement

Research ready and active!

- Identify local pilot areas to test the Neighbourhood Resilience Framework
- Develop co-produced opportunities for public led research.
- Undertake a survey within VCFSE sector

A stylized illustration of three hands in various colors (red, blue, yellow, green) holding a heart. The background is a colorful geometric pattern. The hands are rendered in a bold, graphic style with thick outlines and flat colors.

Community Ready Researchers

- University of Glasgow engagement course
- Identify gaps and co-design further skills development in this area
- Connect researchers and communities